

November 11 to Thursday November 14th 2024

Monday November 11, 2024.

I had a terrible sleep, and woke up often, due to a snotty and runny nose. So after a sleep in, we had yet another quiet day at home.

We had dumplings (left overs) and omelet for tea.

Tuesday November 12th, 2024.

I was still feeling pretty miserable, so another day at home.

We went out for tea and chatted with some expats (and their visitors) in one of our usual little restaurants.

It was interesting that they (the expats) thought most of the temples were just piles of rubble and saw no beauty in them.

Wednesday November 13th, 2024.

David went to Anjali, for Presentation Day. It is the end of the school year for students here. The classes did some performances and some students stood up and spoke (prepared speeches).

Thursday November 14th, 2024.

Even by this Thursday, when I am feeling a bit better, I did not want to go out. We stayed home again. David has planning for the next school year. He has been given the text book they will be using.

In the evening there were fireworks. They were a bit hard to see through the trees.

