

Kuala Lumpur

Part 10 for Cathy's blog

Monday 27th September, 2026.

We feel the hotel breakfast staff had got to know us. The cook on the Roti station would make us a range of Roti Chennai and various rice “flat bread” treats, and bring them to our table (with the delicious Indian curries and chutneys).

The cook at the egg station knew David's order.

The two younger staff who made coffees simply made two lattes and brought them to us.

Today was our last day. I wonder how many days it will take for them to realise we had left... or if they even thought about us again at all.

We had plenty of time in the morning to pack the case.

It was the clearest morning view from our room we had.

Good bye Twin Towers and Kuala Lumpur.

The Grab ride was quick and efficient.

Checking in our luggage worked smoothly, thanks to an Airline staff member. The self serve kiosk works when you put in the booking code!

The walk through the airport and through immigration / passport control was quick and easy.

It was a long walk and a long wait for our plane. We sat for a bit. We ate hamburgers. Then we went down to the waiting lounge.

Boarding was smooth. There didn't seem to be many people waiting, but the plane was nearly full.

Two hours isn't a long time (and the time difference is one hour).

The Tonle Sap.

David was held up for a few minutes here in Siem Reap (facial recognition had a hissy fit! And I don't blame it!). Then we met our driver and we were on our way back to our Siem Reap home.
